

The concept was a large format typography image of space as a macro view of what we are and how small our problems truthfully are in comparison to the universe

i enjoyed working with the size of the image and trying different thing to make it look good it has color and some rhythm.

it could use more layering of text.